PART B - GENERAL CONDITIONS

1. Definitions and interpretation. Defined terms take their meaning from Part A. Headings aid navigation and do not change meaning.
2. Contract formation. This Contract is formed only when both authorized parties sign the same version through TUTELA. A preview or generated PDF alone is not acceptance.
3. Seller obligations. Seller shall supply conforming goods, arrange the obligations allocated to it by Part A, and provide the agreed documents.
4. Buyer obligations. Buyer shall cooperate with delivery, make payment as agreed, and provide timely instructions and documents allocated to it.
5. Product conformity. The goods must conform to Part A and Annex A. Evidence records an assertion and does not by itself prove conformity.
6. Quantity and tolerance. Delivered quantity shall be determined by the agreed method and remain within the stated tolerance.

7. Delivery. Delivery shall occur within the shipment window and at the named place under the selected Incoterms rule.

8. Incoterms relationship. The selected Incoterms (R) 2020 rule allocates delivery, risk, costs and specified obligations only. It does not determine title, payment, governing law or dispute resolution.

9. Inspection and determination. Inspection, quality and quantity determinations shall follow Part A and Annex D, including the agreed effect on claims.

10. Claims procedure. A party shall notify the other promptly with reasonable particulars and supporting evidence. No platform workflow decides legal merits automatically.

11. Documents. Seller shall provide the agreed documentary package in authentic, legible form within the required timing.

12. Payment obligations. Buyer shall pay the agreed currency, amount and timing through the agreed method. TUTELA does not receive or move funds.

13. Late or non-payment. Late or non-payment entitles the affected party to contractual and legal remedies subject to notice, cure and applicable law.

14. Transfer of risk. Risk transfers only as expressly stated in Part A and the incorporated Incoterms rule.

15. Transfer of title. Title transfers only under the separate title provision in Part A and is not determined by Incoterms.

16. Representations and warranties. Each party represents that it exists validly, has authority to contract, and will comply with applicable law.

17. Sanctions and trade compliance. Each party shall comply with applicable sanctions, export controls, anti-bribery and trade laws and shall not require unlawful performance.

18. Force majeure. The agreed treatment applies to impediments beyond reasonable control that could not reasonably be foreseen, avoided or overcome, subject to prompt notice and mitigation.

19. Hardship. The agreed treatment governs exceptional changes that fundamentally alter performance economics, including good-faith renegotiation and the stated termination or adaptation outcome.

20. Default. A material failure not cured within a reasonable notified period permits suspension or termination where lawful and proportionate.

21. Suspension and termination. A party may suspend affected performance or terminate only under this Contract or applicable law, preserving accrued rights and immutable records.

22. Limitation of liability. Neither party excludes liability that cannot lawfully be excluded.

Otherwise, indirect loss is excluded only to the extent fair and enforceable under governing law.

23. Confidentiality. Non-public commercial and technical information shall be protected and used only for this transaction, subject to lawful disclosure.

24. Assignment. No party may assign material rights or obligations without written consent, except to a permitted successor that assumes them.

25. Notices. Contract notices shall be sent to the agreed party contacts by a durable method that records sending and receipt.

26. Amendments. No amendment is effective unless documented as a new governed version or a separately executed amendment linked to this Contract.

27. Entire agreement. This Contract, its annexes and incorporated references constitute the agreement on this sale and supersede inconsistent prior statements.

28. Governing law. The governing law is the law stated in Part A, subject to mandatory rules that cannot be excluded.

29. CISG treatment. The parties adopt the explicit CISG treatment stated in Part A; international character alone is not treated by TUTELA as a legal conclusion.

30. Dispute resolution. Disputes shall follow the institution, seat, language, tribunal size and procedure stated in Part A.

31. Electronic contracting and signatures. The parties consent to electronic contracting. TUTELA records identity, authority, assurance, consent, version, time and integrity metadata; it does not claim a qualified PKI signature.

32. Counterparts. The Contract may be accepted in electronic counterparts that together evidence the same immutable version.

33. Precedence. Part A prevails over the General Conditions, then the Annexes, unless Part A expressly states another order.

34. Survival. Confidentiality, accrued payment, claims, liability, governing law, dispute resolution and integrity provisions survive as appropriate.
